SOUTH SIDE SQUARE. ELBA, ALABAMA.

The laboring man now has a national holiday—a day set apart on which to celebrate his achievements and advancement.

The laboring man of today has a bank account; he no longer carries his cash at the corner saloon. He deposits his pay check in the bank, or if he is paid in cash he deposits that and pays his bills by means of checks.

We invite the accounts of all workmen and working women. These accounts may be small, but all are given courteous treatment by our bank. Come to see us on pay day.

BAPTIST CHURCH
Rev. Chas. H. Gernon, Pastor.
Sunday School at 9:45 a. m. G. C. Bowden, supt.

The evening services at the First Baptist Church will begin at 7:30 p. m., instead of 8:00 p. m. This applies to the mid-week prayer meeting.

Let every Baptist in Elba see to it that the record breaking attendance at Sunday School last Sunday is maintained.

The pastor is very much gratified over the large attendance at the preaching services. He appreciates the promptness of the morning congregation assembling on time, before the service begins. The evening congregation is usually slow in assembling. Many come late. Let every one take an early start and come on time. You'll enjoy the service more and will enable those who are on time to enjoy it and get more out of the service.

Don't forget your mid-week prayer meeting. It will mean much in a spiritual way to all who attend.

Interesting and important subjects will be discussed by member if you are not there at 11:00 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. you'll be late for services begin promptly on the minute.

Mrs. Snellgrove appears to be the least hurt of either of the two having only been generally bruised up, so far as we were able to learn.

Reports as to the cause of the accident are conflicting. It appears, however, that Otto Nowell, who was driving, and Mr. Snellgrove, who was in the front seat also, was watching another train which was switching nearby and failed to observe the approaching A. C. L. train in time to stop or cross ahead of it. The car was said to have been badly wrecked.

All three of them are prominent farmers living only a short distance from Headland. We join their relatives and hosts of friends throughout this section in wishing them a speedy recovery.

Later reports from Moody's Hospital at Dothan where the injured men were taken state that none of them are injured as severely as was thought at first. To just what extent their injuries were we could not be fatally injured. Wire not learn but none are thought to be fatally injured. Wiregrass, (Headland Farmer.)

Two Acres Will Feed Mule For Whole Year

On two acres of land Alabama farmers can grow sufficient hay and grain to feed a mule for a whole year. Not only can they do this but in doing so they can increase the fertility of their lands. These facts were brought to light by the Alabama Experiment Station in its results of 1921 which are reviewed by Professor M. J. Funchess, head of the department of Agronomy.

In the fall of 1920 different mixtures of oats, clovers, and vetch were planted on the Experiment Station. In the spring of 1921 the plot of clover and oats, mixed, produced per acre: clover, alone, 3360 pounds per acre; and vetch, alone, 3352 pounds per acre; mixed clover and oats, 3568 pounds per acre.

These crops were cut for hay in the early part of May and the land planted to corn. That followed the mixture of oats and clover produced 36.9 bushels per acre; that following clover alone produced 40 bushels per acre; that following oats and vetch, 32.1 bushels per acre; while that following vetch alone produced 36.6 bushels per acre. On an adjoining check plot of identical land where no winter crops had grown the average corn yield was 29.2 bushels per acre.

As pointed out by Professor Funchess, these results show that on land here at Auburn, which is generally known to be poor land, sufficient hay and grain was produced on 2 acres of land for a year's ration for a mule, and compared with land having no winter cover crop the corn yield was increased from 7 to 10 or more bushels per acre.

Skeleton of White Man Is Found In Old Mine

Dora, Sept. 10.—A ghastly discovery was made at the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company's mine here, when the skeleton of a white man was accidentally found Thursday by D. F. Garrison and H. Moore, who were inspecting some old workings of the mine, with the view of taking out the coal left in the pillars, that part of the mine having been worked out several years ago.

The skeleton was said to be that of a man about 5 feet 3 inches tall, and appeared to be about 40 years of age.

There were several theories advanced as to the identity of the man, but according to Coroner Legg's report, no definite conclusion has been reached.

Wants To Go To Jail To Be With Huby

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 10.—Just married and enjoying his wedding supper—then jail, was the experience of William Hays, national guardsman, who married pretty Gladys Gabriel, a fifteen year old girl, in Birmingham yesterday. His wife is in the custody of the juvenile court.

Gladys' father swore out a warrant charging perjury to Hays, alleging that his daughter's age had been misrepresented in order that a marriage license might be secured.

Hays was arrested just after the wedding supper had been finished and was carried to police headquarters. Gladys bade him a sad farewell, saying, "I know in own heart, I love him. If Billie goes to jail, I want to go too, because I want to be where he is."

Billy kept a stiff upper lip, and was very determined in speech: "I love her and will live with her in spite of her parents," he declared.

He was chairman of the Alabama delegation at the national democratic convention at Baltimore in 1912 when Woodrow Wilson was nominated for the presidency.
